“ Hearing about your mother's death broke my heart. She was such a good friend of my mom at The Villas. My mother's stroke-induced language disability made it difficult for many people to talk with her. But not your mother. Jeanne told me that she'd had a friend in high school who was deaf, so she'd learned early on how to talk with folks who had communication problems. When your mother and mine started spending time together regularly, my mom's language functioning took a huge leap forward. I was so happy to think of them chatting away, heads together over jigsaw puzzles and who knows what! The memory of your patient, kind, beautiful mother will remain in my heart and mind.
