“ Brandon did love to pick. About anything he could. He had a great laugh. He loved to cook and couldn't understand why no more wanted to eat his, special Ramen. Well, not everyone enjoyed food as hot as him. Lol. He did had a big heart and was always generous to his family and friends. We are still in shock and will miss him terribly. Love you Brandon. Your crazy old lady, aunt Marla.

“ It was two or more summers ago, the last year the pool was up. We had all gotten in the pool, unaware of what was there. We were all too busy playing and cutting up to realize we weren't alone. Until I noticed one of those things move as I got the water gun. I looked at Brandon and said we have company. He simply said what is it? I sad a tadpole. Paul, being Paul, scrambled out of the pool so fast. Brandon and I spend the rest of the day picking up Paul for not swimming with the tadpoles with us. Brandon, you are so loved and will be forever missed.
