“ Mr Wren worked with us here at John Sinclair Nissan and always had a smile on his face and a positive thing to say. He often gave me advice on giving direction to some of the young guys we had working for us. Condolences to the Wren family.

“ I deeply sympathize with your loss. The first occasion I encountered Big Jim was at Second Missionary Baptist Church. Jim recounted his testimony about how God had rescued him. His testimony was incredibly touching. He consistently shared his story with everyone he encountered. He always expressed his love for Jesus. I extend my heartfelt condolences to the family, and may Jesus provide you with comfort and strength during this time of mourning.

“ I interviewed Mr. Wren in 2011 for a photo book I was doing on Smelterville. I changed the title of the book after speaking with him. It became Smelterville: A Community of Love.

“Everybody was loved,” he said. “Everybody was family. If one done something, another parent would take care of you. Everybody’s parent looked after you. It wasn’t like now, you know. It was one community of love. I’ve got good remembrances from there, you know. Some of that made me the man that I am now.”
