“ He Knows The Pain Of Death As the darkness of night approaches, there is sadness in the air. The life of the one you love will no longer be there. Though emptiness surrounds you, alas, he's finally free. He may have lost the battle, but his soul is there with thee. It's hard to lose a loved one, and we may not understand, put your trust in God the Father, and He'll lead you by the hand. He'll lead you through the heartache and dry each tear you cry, for God knows the pain of death, when He saw His own Son die. Just as He loved His Son, He loves you just the same. Sometimes it takes a heartache to magnify His name. I wanted to say to all the Balsmann Family that I am so sorry for your loss. Danny and I were good friends in high school. We all ran around together and had made alot of great memories. He will be sadly missed by all. May God be near you always! Mary Kathryn (Volkerding) Porter
