“ To Christina and Heather; I am sorry I missed your Dad's service and just learned of it. I worked with your mom, Jeanne at the hospital for several years and she was a dear, dear friend. I remember one day your Dad came to see her and I thought, wow, they look at each other with such ultimate love it is just awesome! Your mom spoke of your Dad often and told funny stories which I wish I could remember. I do remember how happy they were. She told me once, " Yeah, I'm just the mean old nurse who gets them well and you're the happy puppet lady who makes them happy!" I taught them how not to be afraid of surgery and to be nice to the nurses. I loved your mom, very much and I wish I could have seen you both in person. She was loved and treasured by many as I'm sure was your Dad. I still speak of her dedication and the difference she made often. May God bless you both...you had terrific parents.

“ Tina and family, You have my deepest sympathies. I had the fortune of training Everett for almost 7 years at the gym (with atleast 5 of those being against his will if you asked him!) I feel truly blessed that I got to know him, spend time with him and call him friend. I'll never forget all of the times I'd tell him that we were going to do a new exercise and he'd give me a look occassionally followed by a !@!#!#!@ (I can't really say what he really said!) I'll miss our conversations we had on life, the bad jokes that we shared and the late text messages we'd send eachother after a big college basketball game. I'll never forget our trip to KY lake together or the giant "catfish" that took Ev 45 mins, a lot of cussing, and a huge bruise from the pole on his stomach to get to the surface only to find out we had hooked a giant Asian Carp. I'll always giggle to myself when I think of when EV first went into the hospital and told me to ask my future wife who is a nurse if it was against the rules to troll the hallways with his gown "accidentally" untied. I'll miss him dearly and the times we shared. Please know that you are all in my thoughts and prayers and that if you ever need anything to please let me know.
