“ all of my favorite child hood memories were with isaiah. riding 4 wheelers, wrestling in his room while he had WWE on the tv 😂, racing on our bikes because he swore he was faster, watching 10 different cartoons with him at one time because he hated the commercials, going to his basketball games and deciding i wanted to play too because i looked up to him. and then even in our teenage/adult years i still did. the talks by the river, the car rides blasting music, him coming to my room and playing the game for hours and me watching even though i had work the next day, making him food anytime he asked because all he had to do was smile to get his way 😂, giving each other advice when it came to life and relationships. to know isaiah was to know love because despite everything he went through, he always had the biggest heart. i miss my bestfriend.
