Born on June 21, 1971, in Granite City, Illinois, to James Lee and Linda (Campbell) Hormann. Jim's charisma and intelligence were evident from his early years in Collinsville, Illinois and then throughout his teen years in Sullivan, Missouri. A proud graduate of Sullivan High School in 1989, Jim's love for learning propelled him to St. Louis University, where he earned a Bachelor's Degree in Biology and English. However, his thirst for knowledge that drove him to continue at Southeast Missouri State University, where he completed his Master's Degree in Biology/Chemistry with emphasis in Wildlife management where he met the love of his life, Annette Schmitz.

Jim and Annette united in marriage on June 15, 1996, and together they built a beautiful family. Jim embraced Annette's son, Kyle Seabaugh, as his own and later was overjoyed to become the father of two sons, James Edward Lee and William Charles Thomas. Although Jim and Annette later divorced, they maintained a deep friendship, supporting each other as close confidants throughout the years to support their children.

and Pennsylvania where he contributed to advancements in medical healthcare. His entrepreneurial spirit later led him to establish his own consulting firm, which he operated until 2020 when he decided to return to Sullivan to be closer to his parents and sons.

Jim's life was marked by a fierce work ethic and a brilliant mind. He was recognized for his intellect and skills, earning respect and accolades in his field. Despite being diagnosed with Berger's Disease at a young age, Jim faced his condition with unwavering courage and determination, never allowing it to define his life's achievements.

Family was the cornerstone of Jim's life, and he cherished every moment spent with his loved ones. His interests were as varied as they were passionate. Jim was an enthusiast of muscle cars, taking immense joy in his '72 Chevelle. He found solace and excitement in fishing on his boat and engaging in spirited gaming sessions on his Xbox. Although he was primarily a business traveler that preferred to stay at home, he still loved to work with different people throughout the world and he created lasting memories with various teams in Japan, Australia, and the US.
