“ When Patty joined our class during grade school, I thought she was the most beautiful girl in the entire school—and awfully nice too. Later her poise and smile as a majorette were grand assets. She gave me tips when I tried out—but it was a hopeless endeavor. We’ll meet again—I’m counting on it. In the meantime, my sincere sympathy to all the family.

Thank you Joy. My mother loved sharing stories of her days in the marching band. When I was small she tried to teach me the baton twirling, but alas, it was not meant to be for me either! (Smiling now).
