“ Roy was a real Dad-guy. He was a warm and loving grandfather to my kids all their lives, but the memory that best shows his dad-nature happened to me and John when we were in our 40s. We bought his Dodge Caravan from him, driving down from Iowa to pick it up. Of course it was clean as a whistle, but in the glove box, along with the owner's manual and records, Roy had included: A tire gauge, Road maps of Missouri and Iowa, a Flashlight, and a New Package of Batteries! Yeah, we felt the love.

I'm so sorry for your loss, and so thankful I got to have Roy in my life and my family's life.
