“ Well, it actually pedends on your own personal interests lol Are you the partying/get drunk type of person? Or do you prefer simply hanging out in different parts of the city taking in the atmosphere, see all the different fountains, monuments etc .?I did the latter, and loved it. During the day I was out roaming around and doing the usual tourist attractions like the monuments etc. For the new years itself, Piazza de Popolo puts on one hell of a fireworks show! Although you do have to be careful there because it gets very crowded towards midnight and in a place like Italy, crowded = lots of pickpockets. So you have to take some precautions with your valuables The rowdiness is also there there are a lot of drunks and often times they explode their own firecrackers, so you have to be careful of that too! I saw a few times an ambulance coming into the piazza and taking someone to the hospital. But other than that, it really is a spectacular show at midnight as long as you stay safe! ;)After midnight, last time I was walking back to my motel, which was on the other side of the city, so I stopped by all the fountains along the way. VERY very nice at night! Usually a 1/2 hour walk took me well over 2 hours that night, with all the stops. There are a few cafes that you'll still find open, so I was just relaxing there and watching all the people go by its one of my favorite activities in Italy I intend to do that this year as well. Of course, all of that may be totally meaningless to you if you dont like to do things like that ;)Either way, have a great time on your trip but do watch out for your safety on that particular night it can get pretty wild closer to midnight..

“ My Dearest Debbie, I am so sorry to hear of your loss. My prayers are with you and your family. Ted was, indeed, a very special and unique person. My parents and siblings thought highly of him. As kids, we spent a lot of time together in our church youth group and at my house. Mom reminisced last night of how Ted kind of adopted her. He'd walk in our back door with that huge grin on his face, reach out to give her a big bear hug, and say, "Hi Mom! How's my favorite lady?" Mom loved Ted so much and was saddened to hear about his illness, his suffering and his passing. Personally, I remember Ted's remarkable talents as a singer, song-writer and acoustic guitarist. Such beautiful songs he wrote! He's now joined the heavenly choir with that smooth tenor voice of his for I know without a doubt that Ted is with Jesus.

“ I remember riding my bike in my neighborhood as a kid to the Coalter house. I remember Ted always engaging me in conversation. Even though I was just a kid, he seemed to care about what I had to say. In every other house I would go to as a kid, me and the kid I was with would disappear into their room or basement and their parents would never see us. This was not so at the Coalter house. When I would come over to play with Jason and Laura, I ended up hanging out with the entire family. This home was obviously led by a man who loved God cause it showed in how they loved others. I am praying for you all and I want you to know that I know what its like all too well to lose a parent at a young age. Stay close to Jesus and allow your friends to love on you during this time. That will get you through it. Love, Shane

“ Debbie, Jason and family, and Laura and family, I am so very sorry. What a wonderful husband and father Ted has always been. I have so many fond memories of our caravans to Florida, and weeks in paradise. Our family is so blessed to have you all as such close friends, though we live so far apart. Laura, my life-long, long-distance best friend, my heart is breaking over not being able to be there with you today and tomorrow. I tried to make it work and it just couldn't happen. Please know that I am constantly, continuously praying for you. Praying for that peace that surpasses all understanding. I love you all so very much!!

“ We were blessed to know Ted through his sister Suzanne. The sparkle in her eyes showed us how special he was. We heard of stories of how he did so well in his printing business, and his insurance business. How wonderful he was as a father and husband. How she looked up to him as a big brother knowing that he was strong and always there for her. My heart and prayers to out to the whole family. Kim Gross
