“ Last night, my brother Howard called and we were talking about the funeral arrangements, then he told me a story that I'd like to share with Tom's family. Howard said Drury's had flown the crew down to Mississippi to do a job. Howard was gassing up the welder and after he gassed it up he preceded to start it and it blew up and caught the truck and everything on fire. Howard said it blew him out of the truck onto the sand and he rolled and thinks that's what saved him from being burnt worse. He said while laying there waiting on the ambulance that Tom had already called, he watched Tom putting out the fire. He then was admitted to the hospital and Tom stayed by his side. He said Tom spent the night sitting in a hospital chair in his room. When Howard was released the next morning They took him to the airplane to take him back home. Tom was still there to help him get on the plane and as they got him comfortable he said Tom reached over and gave him a pill that the hospital had given Tom to give to Howard for the trip home. How said he will never forget how Tom took care of him and never left his side.
That's how this man was ,kind, gentle and always ready to help anybody in need. Goodbye dear brother-in-law.....Sue Heisserer
