“ I was a class mate as well with Billy and his brother George. We would hang out occasionally and despite the differences Billy had a great sense of humor. My husband Tom Pace would occasionally have parties and Billy would come to some of them. My heart goes out to his family. Unfortunately I lost contact with Billy and his brother George after school but have often asked about them.

“ I was a class mate of Billy. I had some special classes that allowed me to know him in a different way than some i would guess. I, although didn't know him well, was able to see past his troubled side and find a kind person. I hope that his troubles on earth paid his debt to those whom he may have wronged while alive. I feel EVERYONE has daemons that haunt them...sometimes they can be masked, sometimes not. I pray that Billy may now find the peace that he longed for on earth. I also hope that our society can learn from this. It's not fun or a preferred citation to be different. We ALL should take a minute to think about how WE would want to be treated BEFORE judging, or outcasting others simply for being different! Health issues come in MANY forms, sometimes, just giving a caring hand, CAN change things, sometimes even lives! R I P Billy, things are going to be better now!

My thoughts go out to all who knew him and will miss him! I also prey that ALL who may suffere as he did, will find someone who can find a way to make an impact and save lives! It can start with a listening ear, kind words, and simple jesters!

EMPATHY...it CAN change things!

Again, RIP Billy, you deserve it!

I was good friends at a time with Billy but my grandfather, and his father jack were good friends, and I grew up knowing who he was and his brother George was, anyway I've seen billy at his best, and at his worse,but he was always forgiving
